Alford Craft Market

www.alford.info/craftmarket

Did you know that Alford Craft Market is a non-profit making organisation? This unique market is run solely to help as many crafts people as possible.

No public entry fee is charged for any of our events and exhibitor costs are kept to a minimum. Extensive advertisement material is distributed all along the east coast as well as major inland establishments, tourist offices and museums.

Prior to the major fairs - Spring Bank Holiday and August Bank Holiday, which combines an extremely popular music and entertainment festival, 3 massive mail-shots precede major events. All our efforts are designed to bring thousands of visitors to the markets.

See booklet for venues dates and prices.

In an endeavour to retain the quality of craft work and to maintain a high standard, it is necessary for all applicants to have submitted samples of work prior to being accepted on to the market. This is a protection on behalf of all crafts people to exclude the possibility of massed produced and cheap imports. Viewing of work may be done on the first booking at the Alford Manor House or prior to a committee meeting at the Half Moon Hotel in Alford.

After the viewing of work the Secretary will contact the prospective applicant in writing with regard to the Committee's decision.
